PRODUCER

A small family wine cellar MacRobert & Canals producing high quality wines in Rioja. Baptised first as "Laventura" in 2013 combining "aventura" and "ventura". This small family cellar has been recently re-named MacRobert and Canals after the winemaker Bryan MacRobert and his father-in-law Fernando Canals.

VITICULTURE + VINIFICATION

Garnacha from vineyards in Tudelilla (Rioja Oriental) located at more than 580 meters of altitude, which gently descend on the southeastern slope of the Sierra La Hez. The Mediterranean climate that helps the ripening of the Garnacha, combined with the altitude and the stony soils with good drainage allow us to produce a complex but elegant wine. Wine aged in large barrels to preserve all its fruit. Natural fermentation. The oak is to help with the stability of the wine and must not impart any flavour to the wine.

TASTING NOTE

This wine has a pale ruby colour with primary fruit aromas of red fruit such as cranberry, raspberry, strawberry and red cherry. Secondary aromas such as brioche, vanilla and cinnamon due to the lees contact and ageing for one year in barrel. The palate is light and textured with soft tannin. Good acidity, body and length.
