PRODUCER

Andrew Hoadley has worked all across Australia as well as abroad in Barbaresco, Abruzzo and Washington state, and is today regarded as one of Western Australia's revolutionary winemakers. He created La Violetta in 2008, taking the name from an old Piemontese song that celebrates intoxication (responsibly, naturally). He is based in the Great Southern on the coast near Denmark, but sources grapes from trusted growers across the region to make his stunning, envelope-pushing wines in really tiny quantities - a real master of blends.

LA VIOLETTA

VITICULTURE + VINIFICATION

TASTING NOTE

This is a full bodied Chardonnay that will put a smile on your face, the first from Andrew Hoadley in his La Violetta stable. It's rich and creamy like great Aussie Chardonnays of yesteryear but all nicely zipped up with modern freshness. The oak is present but tightly wound amidst the generous perfume, fruit, texture and weight.
